While I am for the new rule change in general, I am against giving Novice, Tech, and Tech Plus an automatic General classification. I feel those classes should, and would take the simple General written test.

As for making the Advanced class “instant” extra, I have no feeling one way or another since they have already taken the difficult part of the extra test and have 13wpm code as well.

For the record, I am a pre-2000 extra and would not benefit from my suggestions.
